BLUE AND WHITE MONEY USED

(Correspondence of Associated Press) DUDAPET, Oct. 4.—Many kinds of money are in circulation in this city. Blue money, that is, the money of the Austro-Hungarian bank, is on hand in very limited quantities.

There is a good white money with a ten per cent discount, and had white money that is worth only one-fifth of its face value. Finally, there is green money, the five crown notes of the state savings bank, with a thirty per cent discount. Cash exchanges have been formed where these monies change hands in great quantities.

Budget, where earlier a newspaper appeared every hour, is living almost without newspapers of its own. The people satisfy their curiosity from the Vienna papers which are sold on the streets by thousands. They were forbidden for a time, but now have been released, and the news vendors make tremendous profits and get four and five crowns for a single copy. The theatres that have reopened are crammed full.

Dudapest is slowly beginning to recover and come back to life, under the protection of the Rumanian bayonet.

LEWD PICTURES DELUGE BERLIN

(Correspondence of Associated Press) BERLIN, Oct. 2.—Some relief from the "enlightenment" or "explanation" films that have been deluging Germany since the revolution is coming, though slowly, from an unexpected source—from boys and girls in a great many small cities who have seen one or more of the films and who have banded together to boycott them. Such organizations have been formed in Leipzig, Hamburg and in such Berlin suburbs as Friedenau, Lichtenfelde, and Lankwitz.

Yet such isolated protests against the evil cannot do much to put down the entire system and, as the Prussian minister president announced yesterday, there is no legal way of stopping the films except under the law against lewd pictures and drawings.

A conservative writer in the Kreuz Gazette blames unscrupulous film producers for "the plague" and at the same time says the decent producer is under tremendous pressure because he simply cannot make his decent films marketable, and is inevitably drawn by the generally prevailing tendency for salacious pictures, which the writer terms as a spot of shame on German public life.

Judge Hellwig in the Conservative Monthly, declares that children and young people are learning familiarity with subjects which they never dreamed of a few years ago, and that the situation is an "example of the benefits of the revolution."

Dr. Hellwig despairs, however, of accomplishing much except by law, for he has seen, night after night, long queues of girls and young men, waiting to get into the "explanation" films and shunning the few theatres where decent films are displayed.

The German minister of the interior, Herr Koch, has announced that he was preparing a bill for censorship of films for presentation to the German national assembly.

An easy victory makes the victors soft.

Who remembers the old fashioned father that declared his daughter's brains were all in her heels?

The girl who once would have been called "innocent" would now be called "green."

It's what you're going to do tomorrow that prevents you from getting anywhere today.

If you can't make money enough to keep up with the parade, the sensible thing to do is to step out of the ranks and watch it go by.

The love affairs of the very young are very, very foolish, but wouldn't you be willing to be very, very foolish in order to be that young?

Only small amateurs are jealous, but there seems to be an astonishingly large number of small amateurs.
